
Continuing Forestry Education

Each participant is credited _____ classroom hours and _____ field hours for structured learning in the topic of _____

(print course name / subject)

Continuing education includes technical courses, study by correspondence, seminars, short courses that meet the following five criteria: organized program of learning; practical application and practice of forestry; conducted by suitable instructors; suitable educational level to forestry practitioners in general. Other activities not specifically related to forestry which benefit an individual in their profession or position can be included, such as forest management, public speaking, and others.

Name of Participant _____

Signature of Instructor _____

Signature of Instructor / Facilitator _____
